San Bernardino County Library moves the Adelanto Branch Library

San Bernardino County Library is hosting an Open House on December 16, 2002 at 10:30 a.m. for its Adelanto Branch Library, which has been relocated to the Bartlett Plaza. The address is 11497 Bartlett Avenue, Adelanto. The project became possible with funding and contributions from First District Supervisor Bill Postmus, San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, the City of Adelanto and the San Bernardino County Library. Refreshments will be served.

The event is open to the public and will be attended by First District Supervisor Bill Postmus. The Open House ceremony will feature the dedication of the Adelanto Head Start Program also located in the Bartlett Plaza. County Librarian Ed Kieczkowski and Preschool Services Department Deputy Director Ron Griffin will participate in the ribbon cutting ceremony. The nearly 4,000 square-foot library facility has allowed the County library to expand, provide a public meeting room for library events, and enlarge the children's area. There are added free public computers with Internet access located throughout the branch including access to the online catalog of all 29 County Library branches.
